Highlights of the Week

Forest School

Our youngest and our oldest children have had their Forest School sessions this week. They enjoyed fire lighting, balancing on the slack line, swinging in the hammocks and making tools and art using natural resources. They all enjoyed playing 'Where's My Monkey?' to finish their session.

EYFS Stay and Play

Thank you to our families old and new who were able to join us for our first Stay and Play session of the year. It was wonderful to see the children swell with pride as they showed off their classroom. We can't wait to welcome you back to our future sessions.

Behaviour at Kellington

What a half term we have had so far! There have been hundreds of house points awarded and so many golds that we've got an emergency order going in for more!

We are excited to announce that team treats for the overall winning team will be relaunched this half term. This will be democratically voted for by the winning team to celebrate their collective achievements in demonstrating great behaviour.

We have other treats in the pipeline for those children noticed for acting with integrity around school - watch this space!

Our Zoneboard is used in school to support correcting undesirable behaviour but more importantly, recognise the effort our children are putting into their learning and making good choices. If you have any questions about our behaviour policy, please check out our website or speak with your child's teaching team who will be happy to answer your questions.
